Ryan Pugh is a commercial litigator advising businesses and individuals. Ryan supports the firm's commercial litigation team to resolve matters involving complex commercial disputes, breach of contract claims and general business torts. Ryan provides important case insights across all phases of litigation by conducting legal research, case analysis, and trial support.

Before joining the firm, Ryan was a summer associate with a New York City boutique law firm. In this position, he helped the firm to provide prompt legal intervention through both settlement and trial. Ryan's experience also includes working as a judicial intern at the Nassau County Supreme Court and the Eastern District of New York, and also as a legal extern with the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of New York. While in law school, Ryan was a senior staff member on the St. John's Law Review and served as a student fellow for the Mattone Center for Law and Religion.
